

Izabella Pluta – PhD in literature, theatrical critic and translator. From 2008 to 2012 she cooperated regularly with La Manufacture - Haute école de théâtre de Suisse romande. Recently she has been granted advanced research fellowship Fernand Braudel IFER - Marie Curie Fellowships at Université de Lyon and ENSATT. She is the author of L'Acteur et l'intermédiarité (L'Age d'homme, 2011), her articles are also published in specialist journals (e.g. « Ligeia », « Teatr ») and group publications (the most recent: Pratiques performatives. Body remix, ed. Josette Féral). She accomplished several research internships (e.g. at Institut d'études théâtrales de l'Université Paris 3), work in practice observations (with Robert Lepage, amongst others) and she dedicates herself to teaching theatre theory in Poland, France and Switzerland. She also directs artistic and scientific projects (in 2012, international conference Le metteur en scène et ses doubles) and is a member of following research groups: Théâtre et intermédiarité (FIRT), Performativité et effets de présence (UQAM) et Représenter/expérimenter (Université Lyon 2-ENSATT-ENS). Her work centres on Polish theatre after 1989, but she is equally interested in artistic research and sticks to technological problems in theatre. (www.izabellapluta.com)
